

SOUTH CAROLINA'S

ANDREW JACKSON

STATE PARK

Andrew Jackson State Park combines history, art and community activities into a setting that has made it one of the S.C. State Park Service's most popular attractions.

The only park in the system dedicated to a U.S. president, Andrew Jackson State Park features a museum that details the boyhood of the nation's seventh president, who grew up here in what then was known as the Waxhaws of the South Carolina backcountry.

A striking highlight of the park grounds is the bold equestrian statue of "Old Hickory" sculpted by Anna Hyatt Huntington of Brookgreen Gardens fame.

The Lancaster County park also has a replica of a late 18th-century one-room schoolhouse, an amphitheater and other community gatherings, as well as a campground, fishing lake, picnicking facilities and trails.
