Expected Results:
Incentive will encourage instructional improvement; attract, retain, and motivate high quality teachers; increased number of NBC teachers; impact on teacher colleagues.

Outcome Measures:
National Board Certification (NBC) is the highest credential in the teaching profession. As of December 2008, SC continues to rank 3rd in the US in the number of NBC teachers (NBCT) with 6,498. NBCTs make up 12 percent of the state's teaching force. While both state and national studies have been neutral on the impact of National Board Certification on student learning, both critics and supporters agree that it has raised the bar for all teachers and has provided a mechanism for teachers to improve their teaching. Many believe that National Board Certified teachers have done a lot of sharing; other teachers have benefited from what board-certified teachers have learned and shared. Most studies indicate that more research needs to be conducted with larger samples before conclusions on the effectiveness of improving student achievement can be determined. The incentive for National Board Certification has had a significant impact on keeping accomplished teachers in the classroom.

Budgetary Program No.: XI.C.2, XI.C.1, XI.E.2

Expected Results:
Improve teacher quality by reducing teacher turnover/attrition and improving retention; help develop and support new teachers; ensure that second- and third-year teachers meet established state-approved performance standards; and provide quality ongoing professional development opportunities for experienced teachers. To ensure that the ADEPT system fulfills these expectations. DEQL staff are responsible for developing resources and materials, overseeing the implementation of the required procedures, providing technical assistance to districts and teacher education programs, collecting, and disseminating related information and data, and evaluating overall program effectiveness, as required by state statute and regulation.

Outcome Measures:
All school districts and teacher education programs are required to submit ADEPT implementation plans and annual ADEPT results on all teachers and teacher candidates to the SCDE. Data are reported electronically via the ADEPT Data System. For FY2009, 97% of the teachers met the state's teaching performance standards. Nine teachers had their teaching certificates suspended for repeated failure to achieve these standards. During FY2009, the state trained a total of 146 trainers in the state's new teacher performance formal evaluation model, SAFE-T. These trainers are, in turn, training evaluators in their respective school districts to implement the SAFE-T model. Out of the 477 educators who participated in SAFE-T evaluator training in FY2009, 79% have passed the SAFE-T exam thus far to become certified evaluators. For FY2010, 48 school districts have volunteered to implement the SAFE-T model. During this time, the state will provide additional training to the remainder of the school districts and to teacher preparation programs, with full implementation of SAFE-T scheduled for FY 2011. The state will also provide advanced training and technical assistance to districts in the induction & mentoring/ADEPT Connections and the expanded goals-based evaluation models.

Expected Results:
Expected results include TAP programs implemented as designed and operating to retain teachers, improve professional training, and improve school and student academic performance.
Outcome Measures:
TAP is an educational reform model that was introduced in SC in FY2002, which was an initial training and start-up year. To assess the effectiveness of the TAP model, annual data collection and analysis are conducted that include teacher and principal surveys, student achievement results and program outcomes. Data collected (PACT scores) for FY2003 through FY2007 show significant overall, vertically aligned, gains in student achievement in TAP classrooms. These achievement gains have led other districts to begin implementing the program at their underachieving schools. TAP has grown from four pilot schools in 2002-03 to 45 schools in 2009-2010.

Of the RR students, 2,083 or 57%, receiving just one lesson or more had the intervention successfully discontinued. 74% of the students who completed 15 weeks of instruction achieved average reading levels. Based on the district’s information included in their summary reports (FY2009), these funds supported the professional development of over 52,000 teachers. Data were used to gauge the effectiveness of the initiative in improving instruction in order to increase achievement. The program conducts desk audits of the summary reports. A grade-level breakdown of participants is 64.2% (K-5), 19.8% (middle school), and 16% (high school). In FY2009, the Institute of Reading implemented the South Carolina Reading Initiative by training 55 literacy coaches serving in 55 schools in 27 districts across the state. The U.S. Department of Education examined the scores of 4th and 8th grade students who took the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) between the early 1990s and 2007. In SC the achievement gap between white and African-American students decreased 5 points from 31 to 26 points for 4th graders and from 33 points to 27 points for 8th grade students. SC 8th grade African-American students scored a 265 average compared with the national average of 259. 4th grade African-American students scored 1 point below the national average of 222. Districts provided 81 college courses training 1,645 teachers in 2008-09. Roper Mountain trained 165 teachers and provided 11 different customized science courses. Based on the district’s information included in their summary reports (FY2009), these funds supported the professional development of over 52,000 teachers. Data were used to gauge the effectiveness of the initiative in improving instruction in order to increase achievement. The program conducts desk audits of the summary reports. A grade-level breakdown of participants is 64.2% (K-5), 19.8% (middle school), and 16% (high school). SLEI for Principals is a national model for development of confident, competent, and caring educational leaders. In FY 2009, 65 principals/other education leaders completed SLEI; 40 principals are halfway through the program; 20 are attending the new cohort. Eleven district assistant superintendents completed the Superintendent's Program. Survey results continue to rate SLEI as the single best leadership/professional development program. Resources are continuously updated to include current proven practices in school leadership. The key findings of the SLEI Program found that SLEI Alumni report substantial impact as a result of the program: 94% report that the program prepared them to lead effective change to a great extent. 96% report that there has been a change in their school's culture as a result of their participation. 88% agreed or strongly agreed that the program taught them what they needed to positively impact student achievement. 87% report that their experience will accelerate their attainment of desired improvement results.
