Dear Don:

Enclosed you will find the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation’s FY1996-1997 Accountability Report. Several methods were used to develop the Agency Mission Statement, objectives and performance measures.

The Agency’s Mission Statement was developed at a Manager’s Retreat in the fall of 1995. Gary Monjo of the State Quality Network and Probation, Parole and Pardon Services facilitated an afternoon session with me and my Deputy Directors. In this session, several total quality management tools, including brainstorming and consensus decision making, were used to develop the mission statement.

The objectives and performance measures were developed over a number of years. Some, especially those involving the Labor Division, were developed before the agency was restructured. These have been reviewed annually by the Deputy Director of Labor and Labor’s Program Managers and have been updated to reflect changes in program priorities and/or new initiatives. The POL Division performance measures and objectives were developed by the Deputy Director of Professional and Occupational Licensing and her Assistant Deputy Directors in a planning session held this past summer. Several factors were looked at including; customer satisfaction, board member input, and compliance with state-established requirements for licensing and practicing. The State Fire Academy’s and State Fire Marshal’s were developed in a similar manner with assistance from various advisory boards and committees.
If you have any questions about this report, please call George Ropp of my staff at 896-4312.

Sincerely,

Lewis F. Gossett
Director
