

Our library is participating in the

SOUTH CAROLINA PLANTS THE SEED

Eating Well, Reading Well Program

SC Plants the Seed is a free, family-centered program that is improving literacy and access to healthy food.

Come enjoy a unique opportunity where:

- You can purchase healthy, locally grown produce with Healthy Bucks (Spend $5 in SNAP & get $10) SNAP, WIC, SFMNP, debit/credit and cash.
- Each child will receive a FREE book.
- Sample a healthy recipe during a cooking demonstration, which comes with a free cookbook, reusable shopping bags and much more.
- Your family can participate in art, crafts, and story time.

SC Plants the Seed is a partnership between our library, Department of Health and Environmental Control, South Carolina State Library, Department of Social Services, and local farmers.
