STILL NO NEWS ON STATE AID FOR 1971-72

There is considerable controversy in the legislative halls over the use of 1960 or 1970 census figures in the distribution of State funds to the counties. State Aid to Public Libraries is one of the programs which will be affected by the final decision. At this point the General Appropriations Bill carries an amount for State Aid exactly equaling the amount for 1970-71 when State Aid was distributed on the basis of the 1960 census, but the bill stipulates that the funds be distributed on the basis of the 1970 census. Distribution of State Aid to Public Libraries based on the amount currently being recommended, but allocated on the increased population figures, would mean that State Aid would be reduced to approximately 18¢ per capita. This means that all counties in the state, with the exception of eleven counties where there have been sharp increases of population, would receive a drastic cut in State Aid. To maintain State Aid for 20¢ per capita, an additional $39,584 must be added to the figure currently being recommended for this item ($478,519) to bring the total to $513,103--the figure needed to maintain State Aid to Public Libraries at 20¢ per capita. The final decision on the federal census to be used as the basis for distribution of State funds rests with the Legislature. The problem is expected to be resolved before the first of June and the decision reached will govern all State funds returned to the counties on a per capita basis.

1972 FEDERAL FUNDS FOR LIBRARIES

An education appropriation bill, including 148.7 million dollars for library programs in fiscal '72, was passed by the House on April 7th on a roll call vote of 354-7. The measure (HR 7016) now awaits further action in the Senate where hearings are already under way.

Prior to passage of the bill, an attempt was made by Representative William D. Hathaway to increase the education and library funds by an additional $728 million. But his 'package' amendment, which was backed by a gratifying number of House members, lost on a very close vote of 191 to 187. In other words, the amendment lost by four votes. Of the South Carolina Congressional Delegation, only Representative William Jennings Bryan Dorn voted for the amendment.

Librarians, library trustees, and friends of libraries throughout South Carolina wrote to the South Carolina Delegation expressing their concern at a possible cut to Federal aid to libraries. These letters were significant in support of the passage of the appropriation bill with the funds necessary to maintain Federal aid under the Library Services and Construction Act at its present level. The bill still has to go to the Senate, and letters in support of adequate funding for the Library Services and Construction Act should be sent to both South Carolina Senators, Senator Thurmond and Senator Hollings. Letters of thanks should also be sent to the South Carolina House members who helped get funds for libraries increased over the budget recommendations of President Nixon.

MEET MAC, STATE LIBRARY'S LATEST PROJECT

The State Library is putting all its strength behind an effort to improve reference and interlibrary loan service in South Carolina. The next major objective is to coordinate the library resources of the entire state to serve the people of the state. A major project to aid in achieving this goal is the new MAC Project now being initiated.

This project was developed by the New Jersey State Library and has been in successful operation for about a year. In essence, the project involves the microfilming of the entire catalog of the South Carolina State Library, furnishing a copy of the microfilm to the three Area Reference Resource Centers in Greenville, Charleston, and Florence, and supplying the necessary equipment to these centers to allow them to rapidly scan the catalog for material which they need in filling interlibrary loan and reference requests. The catalog will be kept up to date with annual supplements. It is probable that the entire catalog will be re-microfilmed every five years. Title III money is being used to finance this project, which will open up the entire holdings of the State Library to the people and institutions served by the three area centers.

The State Library is discussing with the University of South Carolina and Clemson University the possibility of microfilming the entire catalog of these institutions. In the event that the university libraries accept this offer, the State Library will microfilm these catalogs, furnishing a copy of the microfilm catalog to each university. The State Library, the University of South Carolina Libraries and the Library of Clemson University would then hold microfilm copies of the catalogs of the three agencies and would be able to scan these catalogs in locating material needed for interlibrary loan requests. It would be possible for the university libraries to have copies made of the microfilm catalog at a very small cost and supply these to their own university centers so that these centers would have a means of searching the catalog of the parent institution for material they needed.

An added benefit of the MAC Project is that it gives each of the participating libraries real insurance for their catalogs by providing a microfilm copy of complete holdings useful in case of vandalism to the main catalog. It will also enable branches of the parent institution to use with the greatest convenience and at small expense the complete university holdings.

The State Library will begin microfilming its catalog early in May. The Area Reference Resource Centers are expected to receive the microfilm edition of the State Library's catalog by late June, together with the reader-printer-copier for scanning the microfilm. Microfilm will be mounted in cassettes which will be simple to use and require no machine threading.

STATE DOCUMENTS PROGRAM

Checklist of South Carolina State Publications for the fiscal year 1969/70 is now being distributed by the South Carolina State Library. The Checklist is an annual listing of those State publications received by the State Library. It was formerly issued by the Department of Archives and History from 1950-1967.

It is arranged according to the classification system devised for South Carolina State publications, which is an alphabetical arrangement by key word in the issuing agency and in the title. An exception to the arrangement is that legislative materials precede regular agency and executive publications. Judicial publications are omitted since they are available in the Supreme Court Library and in the USC Law Library but not in the State Library.

Included on the mailing list are: (1) all county, regional, institutional, special, and academic libraries in South Carolina; (2) school libraries in South Carolina on request; (3) all other 49 state libraries; (4) major out-of-state research libraries on request; (5) Library of Congress; (6) South Carolina State agencies and State government; (7) professional, philanthropic, and civic associations and organizations on request. Private individuals requesting the Checklist will be referred to the library nearest them on our mailing list. Most publications may be borrowed from the South Carolina State Library on interlibrary loan.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING FOR FORT MILL

At the annual dinner meeting of the Fort Mill Chamber of Commerce held on April 21st, Mr. Bill Kimbrell, retiring president of the Chamber, announced the approval of a Federal grant of $50,000 which will make construction of a long-needed library building a certainty.

The building has been designed by architect Paula Treder, and will be located in downtown Fort Mill on Confederate Street.

Wallace Vaughn has been in charge of much of the detailed arrangements with county, state, and Federal authorities. The building will cost approximately $103,000, exclusive of fixtures, carpet, and paving. Fort Mill citizens raised some $20,000; the State Library has made a grant of $50,000 from Federal funds under its administration and the Elliott White Springs Foundation has promised an additional $50,000. The Town of Fort Mill provided the site without cost.

The Fort Mill Library is a branch of the York County Library system, and as such, shares in the total resources and services of that system.

BAMBERG COUNTY DEDICATES ITS NEW BUILDING

The Bamberg County Library, a member of the Aiken-Bamberg-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional Library, dedicated its new county headquarters building at an open house held Sunday afternoon, April 18th. Visitors were greeted by members of the Bamberg County Library Board, the Regional Library Board, and by members of the Friday Afternoon Book Club, which had initiated library service in Bamberg County in the early 1920's. Estellene Walker, Librarian, and Mrs. Alice Nolte, Field Service Librarian, represented the South Carolina State Library.

A short program was presented by Dr. James P. Carroll, who commented on the long history of library service in Bamberg County.

A feature of the afternoon was a display of the History of Bamberg County Library, written by Mrs. H. G. Hiers, long-time chairman of the County Library Board.

OPEN HOUSE AT UNION LIBRARY

The Board of Trustees and the staff of the Union Library held an open house on Sunday afternoon, April 25th, to dedicate the new South Carolina Room in memory of Miss Cornelia Sartor, librarian from 1915 to 1961. The Carnegie Library Building, which serves as headquarters for the Union County Library System, was one of the first Carnegie buildings built in this country and was built at such an early date that the monumental staircases, a trademark of the later Carnegie buildings, were avoided. The building has been beautifully restored and appropriately furnished. Its strategic location near the business district makes it equally accessible to rural and urban citizens.

Mrs. H. G. Richardson, Chairman of the Board, presided during the brief program. Several hundred people from throughout Union County visited the library during the afternoon. Estellene P. Walker, Librarian, and Margie Herron, Field Service Librarian, represented the South Carolina State Library at the ceremony.

SOUTH CAROLINA INFORMATION NETWORK

To speed the handling of interlibrary loan requests for books and information, and to foster cooperation among the libraries of the state, the South Carolina State Library has begun operation of the South Carolina Interlibrary Teletype System as a part of the LSCA Title III program. To implement the program, TWX machines have been installed in the three Area Reference Resource Center libraries--Charleston, Florence, and Greenville county libraries--as well as at the State Library. These libraries, in cooperation with McKissick Library at the University of South Carolina, are currently participating in the project.

The Area Reference Resource Centers will refer requests from college and university libraries directly to the McKissick Library of the University of South Carolina, which will serve as the clearinghouse for all college requests; requests from public and special libraries will be channeled to the State Library which will serve as a clearinghouse for requests for these agencies. In the event that the material requested is not available within the state, the location of the material will be relayed to the requesting library, which may then make an interlibrary loan request to the institution where the material is available.

With the assistance of the Reference Department of the University Library, the reference staff of the State Library has developed a TWX Operation Procedures Guide to be used by the Area Reference Resource Centers. In general, requests sent by way of TWX will be limited to those of a serious or urgent nature. In the case of requests from college libraries, all interlibrary loans will be handled according to the National Interlibrary Loan Code.

The sharing of library resources is of particular importance in this state where library book ownership is relatively low. Through this information network system, libraries will be able to make maximum use of all library resources available within the state.

SYMPATHY TO

Mrs. J. E. McCutchen, Chairman of the Lee County Library Board, on the death of her mother, Mrs. Edna Hipp Willson.

The family of Joseph Crawford Crews, who resigned as Mayor of Seneca in November due to ill health which resulted in his recent death. Mr. Crews was one of the leaders who worked for the construction of the building for the Seneca Branch of the Oconee County Library.

SERVICE TO RESIDENTS OF PRE-RELEASE CENTER

Under Title IV-A, Library Services and Construction Act, the State Library is authorized to initiate and/or improve service to state institutions. Thirteen institutions previously qualified for assistance under this title. The two most recent are the Pre-Release Centers at Greenville and Spartanburg.

Under a three-way agreement among the supervisors of the centers, the local public library and the State Library, residents of the center may become borrowers of the local library.

The purpose of this service is twofold: to investigate the rehabilitative aspect of the use of the library and to encourage the continued use of the library upon release.

DAUFUSKIE

Among the experimental projects being undertaken by county libraries in the state to try to bring library service to the disadvantaged is one on remote Daufuskie Island in Beaufort County. The project is being supervised by Mrs. Betty Ragsdale, Beaufort County Librarian, and Miss Margie Herron, Field Service Librarian of the State Library. Supervision of this project is no easy matter. In dungarees and sweat shirts, supervising librarians are chauffeured by boat across choppy waves in Port Royal and Calibogue Sounds, past St. Helena, Land's End, Hilton Head, and finally to Daufuskie. The trip takes a little over an hour and can be quite exciting in bad weather.

On the Island itself there are 130 people, one TV, and a two-room school. Short wave radio serves in place of the ubiquitous telephone. Residents enjoy electricity and regular visits by an OEO boat and doctor. Voodoo is still practiced widely.

The following is a direct quote from Margie Herron's field report on her recent supervisory visit to the Island:

"When I arrived at the center, the two Vista workers (a young couple from Michigan) were in the midst of showing the children four Weston Woods and Guidance Associates sound filmstrips--"Stone Soup," "John Henry," "Story about Ping," and "The Red Carpet." There were Scholastic paperback books to accompany two of the filmstrips. The new DuKane projector worked splendidly. Despite the wide age range of the children (pre-schoolers through eighth grade), all remained very quiet throughout the running of the four filmstrips. I could not decide whether they were that taken with the filmstrips or whether the old Negro woman sitting in the corner with a big switch in her hand was not responsible for the well-disciplined group. I was fascinated by this old woman who serves as both midwife and undertaker on the Island. She called all the children in the room her children, having delivered during her lifetime over 150 children, she said. She appeared to be just as interested in the filmstrips as the children. When the "John Henry" filmstrip (the favorite of the four) was run, she tapped her foot and sang along with Tennessee Ernie Ford. After gulping down our grape Kool-Aid and chocolate cupcake, Mrs. Ragsdale and I headed back to the landing to catch Mr. McTeer's boat back to Beaufort. The wind was up, so the ride was rough in spots, but quite exhilarating nonetheless. There was a beautiful sunset as we pulled back onto Lady's Island."

FLORENCE LIBRARIAN HONORED

At the April 21st meeting of the Florence Chapter, National Secretaries Association, Mrs. Marguerite G. Thompson, Librarian of the Florence County Library, was presented an award in honor of her selection as "Boss of the Year" for 1971.

At the recent State Convention of the State Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Mrs. Thompson was elected second Vice President for 1971-73.

Mrs. Thompson, a former president of the South Carolina Library Association, is the ALA Councillor from the South Carolina Library Association.

MRS. BRUNSON HONORED

Mrs. Vernon Brunson, who retired December 31 after 33 years of service in the library field, was recently honored by the Allendale-Hampton-Jasper Regional Library Board. The former board and staff members with whom Mrs. Brunson had served and members of her organizations and the Librarian and staff members of the State Library were invited to a reception held at the home of Mrs. Thomas O. Lawton at Burton.

A book, This is Your Life, with pictures of Mrs. Brunson at various stages in her life, and an engraved silver tray were presented by Mr. Bernard M. Daley, Chairman of the Regional Board, from the board and the staffs of the three libraries.

Estellene P. Walker, Librarian, and Margie Herron, Field Service Librarian, represented the State Library.

Mrs. Brunson was an assistant area supervisor on the WPA Library Project, librarian of the Allendale-Hampton Regional Library from 1942 until 1947, and the librarian of the present regional library since 1947.

AND WE THINK WE HAVE PROBLEMS!

The following is excerpted from the newsletter of the library agency of another state:

"Some of us on the _____ National Library Week Committee are particularly concerned about the small library, the one whose town appropriates fifty dollars annually. These towns are justly proud of their community libraries, have always supported them and probably always will. No one at town meeting would dream of voting down that fifty dollars. We propose a way of increasing the ante to at least fifty-five dollars."

NEWS NOTES OF LIBRARIES, LIBRARIANS, AND TRUSTEES

Abbeville-Greenwood

The Greenwood Kiwanis Club has continued its tradition of generosity to the Children's Room of the Greenwood City and County Public Library, headquarters of the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library with the gift of an overhead projector, which has been popular with Story Hour audiences. The Lions Club presented the library with a check to aid in the purchase of new Boy Scout Merit Badge Manuals.

Aiken-Bamberg-Barnwell-Edgefield

Harry A. Momeier is the newly elected Chairman of the Board of the Nancy Carson Library, North Augusta Branch of the ABBE Regional Library. From the proceeds of the Lions Club horse show, new shelving units amounting to more than $1,000 have been installed in the library. A $100 gift from the Woman's Club was also used on this project.

Chesterfield

March 15 was the first anniversary of the Chesterfield County Library. Plans are being made to add the Pageland Branch to the two libraries, Chesterfield and Cheraw, now in operation. Future plans include the establishment of branches in Jefferson and McBee.

Greenville

Miss Mary Aiken, Children's Librarian, rented the film "Rabbit Hill", for showing in connection with her wildlife series, for two days and had a total of 2,300 children to view it. Mrs. Charlotte Philpot, Children's Room Assistant, took the film to the Shriner's Hospital for their viewing also. The response to this feature length award winning movie was overwhelming.

Mr. John O'Connell of the Art Department has drawn some attractive slides giving the hours of pre-school and school story hours that are being used on WFBC-TV after the morning childrens' program and again in the afternoons at soap-opera time.

Lancaster

The new Era Book Club of Lancaster has presented a check to the Lancaster County Library. The check, which will be used toward the purchase of a cart to be used by patrons in transporting projectors and other heavy equipment, was received from the Progress Foundation of the South Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Laurens

Mrs. Myra Wofford Elmers of Pittsburgh has set up a memorial fund at the Laurens County Library in memory of her mother, Mrs. Cleo Cunningham Wofford. Mrs. Wofford was a correspondent for the Laurens Advertiser in its earlier days. Among her ten children were Dr. Kate Wofford, outstanding writer and educator, and Azilee Wofford, librarian who retired some years ago from the staff of the library school of the University of Kentucky.

Marion

The Education Committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce has resolved that the Marion City Council provide funds for the maintenance of the Marion headquarters of the Marion County Library.

Pickens

Friends of the Pickens County Library have set a minimum goal of 500 members. All funds will be placed in the building fund for a new building for the Pickens Branch of the Pickens County Library.

The Pickens County Library recently acquired two sets of fine art film-sound presentations. One is "Understanding and Enjoying Music," narrated by Leonard Bernstein. The other is "Great Works of Art Explained," which presents colorful photographs of art masterpieces.

Richland

Mrs. George S. King, Director of the Richland County Public Library, has returned from a ten day trip to Rome. She was accompanied by Mrs. John T. Melton and Mrs. W. Eugene McNulty, both of the cataloging department.

Mrs. Gerda Belknap, Children's Services Librarian for the Richland County Public Library, appeared on WOLO-TV's Romper Room on Monday, April 19, in connection with special children's programs held at the library during National Library Week.

Sumter

The annual report of the South Carolina Arts Commission cites the Sumter County Library for its art lending program. With the Art Commission's help, the library now has 130 framed, high-quality reproductions of famous paintings available on eight-weeks loan to its borrowers.

SOUTH CAROLINA ORAL LIBRARY

The use of the telephone and airplane by makers of history has eliminated some of the most valuable tools of historians--letters, memoirs, and other lengthy records of communication.

One answer to this problem is for historians themselves to utilize new means of communications to preserve history.

The director of libraries at the University of South Carolina, Kenneth G. Toombs, and an advanced history class taught by Dr. John J. Duffy are this semester laying the groundwork for what apparently will be the first attempt at establishing an oral library in South Carolina.

Toombs has spent hours interviewing Archibald Rutledge, South Carolina's poet laureate, and students in Dr. Duffy's class are using the tape recorded interview technique for research on several topics of contemporary history dealing with the state.

CHEROKEE COUNTY TO HAVE NEW BUILDING

Acting on the assurance of the Cherokee County Legislative Delegation that no other site was available at a price the county could afford, H. Carlisle Bean, Chairman of the State Library Board, approved a site at Rutledge Avenue and Johnson Street for the construction of the Cherokee County Library headquarters.

The Cherokee County Library is eligible for a $75,000 grant from LSCA funds provided local matching funds, some $250,000, are assumed by May 1.

Appalachian funds amounting to approximately $45,000 are contingent on Cherokee County making the May 1st deadline.

ANDERSON LIONS PLAN ADDITIONAL SERVICE TO THE BLIND

Through the years, the Lion Clubs have been concerned with sight conservation and working with those with impaired vision.

The Anderson Lion Club has announced that it is assuming responsibility for establishing and equipping an audio-visual center in the new Anderson County Library now under construction. An initial sum of $5,000 has been presented to C. B. Russell, Director of the Anderson County Library, for the purchase of books-in-large print, talking books, cassettes, tapes, etc.

COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY LIBRARY NEWS

Allen University

Sister Bernetta Quinn, who teaches English at Allen University, is on a crusade to add books to the library.

A fellow teacher from Temple University whom Sister Bernetta met at a Modern Languages Association Conference, collected books at Temple and her niece, a teacher at Bucks County Community College, collected some 4000 volumes. Contributions have come from the College of St. Theresa in Winona, Minnesota, and university presses around the country.

Books are checked by recommended lists before being added to the collection.

Mrs. J. Arthur Holmes is the Allen librarian.

Benedict College

Bids for the construction of a $2 million multi-purpose Learning Resources Center for Benedict College will be opened May 11. The building will replace the 34-year-old Starks Library.

Lyles, Bissett, Carlisle and Wolfe, the architectural-engineering firm, is in charge of the major architectural design for the new campus buildings.

The center will have a 200,000 volume capacity, and will seat 1,000 readers. There will be an Afro-American Room, rare book room, a developmental reading laboratory, and audio-visual facilities.

Mrs. M. S. Johnson is the librarian.

Citadel

In order to expedite the production of catalog cards, the Citadel Library is using an IBM magnetic tape selectric typewriter. A card is typed and the MTST produces the desired number of copies.

Columbia College

An exhibition of works by faculty members of various schools and colleges in South Carolina was on display at Edens Library Gallery, Columbia College during April.

This exhibit, held in commemoration of the state's tricentennial, is being circulated by the South Carolina Association of Schools of Art. It includes paintings, prints, sculpture, ceramics, drawings, and batiks.

Erskine College

The Philomathean Literary Society at Erskine College has named college librarian Mr. Paul Dove, Jr. as Erskine College "Man of the Year".

Copies of the Abbeville Press and Banner, the Abbeville Press, and the Abbeville Independent covering the years 1858-61, 1865-68, 1870-71, and 1875-77 have been contributed to the McCain Library, Erskine College, in memory of the late Dr. James William Thomson, an Abbeville native and Erskine graduate. The memorial was made by Dr. Thomson's children.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Boyce of Charlotte have donated six volumes, 1852 and 1855-59, of Harper's Magazine to the library.

Francis Marion College

J. Mitchell Reames, Director of the Library, Francis Marion College, served as a member of the Southern Association Visiting Committee at the University of Tennessee at Martin on April 4-7.

Mrs. Salley B. Martin, currently on the staff of Methodist College, Fayetteville, North Carolina, will join the staff of Francis Marion College Library on July 1. Mrs. Martin will serve under a temporary appointment until December 1 at which time her husband, Lt. Neal A. Martin, will join the staff as Reference Librarian. Lt. Martin is currently completing a tour of army duty in Korea.

University of South Carolina

McKissick Memorial Library at the University of South Carolina displayed during April feature prints from USC's extensive collection of John James Audubon materials.

One section of the display, draped in black, memorialized the now extinct Carolina parakeet and passenger pigeon, both of which were abundant in South Carolina when Audubon visited the state.

Wofford College

The new $1.5 million Wofford College library has been named the Sandor Teszler Library in honor of the father of Andrew Teszler, member of the Wofford Board of Trustees.

The three-level library was opened in September, 1969, and has a capacity of 150,000 volumes. In 1970 the library received the Merit Award for Excellence from the South Carolina Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

LEADING TO READING WITH SESAME STREET

The Reading Reinforcement Committee of the Children's Television Workshop, under the auspices of the National Book Committee, Inc., will start distribution on or about March 31, 1971, of a "Leading to Reading with Sesame Street" kit.

The kit is designed especially to help librarians, teachers, and others reinforce and extend the learning impact of the "Sesame Street" TV series for pre-school children. It contains the "Sesame Street Utilization Casebook" which describes what "Sesame Street" tries to do educationally, provides examples of library programs created by librarians who are effectively using "Sesame Street" to help develop verbal and listening skills that lead to reading, describes the "Sesame Street" viewing centers programs and their relationship to the local television stations. The Casebook also contains a booklist of about 800 titles, categorized by program interest areas; a set of Sesame Street Magazines containing how-to-do-it hints for parents, follow-up games and activity ideas; a set of posters and a cast photo; and an order blank for other materials (recordings, orientation film, and others).

The price of the kit is $4.95. Make checks payable to the National Book Committee, Inc., and mail to SS KIT, National Book Committee, One Park Avenue, New York, New York 10016.

LIBRARIES AND DRUG ABUSE EDUCATION

Help is available to librarians who are already engaged in programs designed to decrease drug abuse or who are planning such programs. The National Drug Education Training Newsletter has good program information and is available on request from National Action Committee for Drug Education, 110 Anderson Tower, University of Rochester, Rochester, New York 14627. Publication began in September, 1970, and early issues may still be available.
