A Letter from the Dean of The Citadel Graduate College

Dear Prospective and New Students,

On behalf of The Citadel Graduate College (CGC), I want to thank you for your interest in graduate study at The Citadel. For a few of you, receiving this handbook represents a continuation of your graduate or undergraduate work here on our campus; for most of you, however, The Citadel and the CGC will probably be an entirely new experience. Regardless what led you here, we would like to extend a warm welcome to you!

The CGC offers nationally-accredited programs for both graduate and undergraduate students. These include 27 graduate programs, seven graduate-level certificate programs, and four undergraduate programs. Because our classes are offered in the evenings, we are able to provide a quality education that is tailored around your profession, your family, and your lifestyle. Most of our classes meet once a week, always in a non-military environment. You will enjoy a personalized educational experience, and you will benefit from our outstanding faculty.

You should feel very confident that you are making a wise decision in choosing The Citadel. In the 2011 "Best Colleges" rankings from U.S. News & World Report, The Citadel was designated as the No. 2 Best Public University and the No. 6 Best Value in the South offering up to a master's degree. The Citadel is one of only two public institutions in the entire country to be included in the "Great Schools, Great Prices" category.

Please take an opportunity to learn more about our academic policies, our services, and other matters by visiting our website at www.citadel.edu/graduatecollege.

The Citadel Graduate College is the right choice if you desire to make a difference, aspire to become a leader in your field, and hope to have a productive and rewarding career. I wish you every success as you pursue those goals.

Sincerely,

Steve A. Nida, Ph.D.
Associate Provost and Dean
The Citadel Graduate College

A Letter from the President of the Student Government Association

Students of The Citadel Graduate College:

On behalf of the entire Student Government Association (SGA) at the CGC, I would like to extend a warm welcome to our new students as well as an inspirational welcome back to our returning student body. This school year looks to be very promising and eventful with many exciting activities planned!

The SGA represents the entire student body here at the CGC. It is our goal to improve the overall quality of student services and academic programs. Working with the administration, faculty, and students, our mission is to improve the overall educational experience of all CGC students. Outside the academic environment, we are committed to providing opportunities for graduate students to come together through a variety of social, athletic, philanthropic, and educational events that promote comradeship, personal growth, networking opportunities, and personal enjoyment.

Using the handbook as a reference, students can better understand their duty as well as the traditions and legacy that surround both The Citadel and The Citadel Graduate College. You will easily recognize that The Citadel is the ideal institution for graduate and undergraduate studies here in the Lowcountry due to its location, accreditation, and the high-quality of our professors. It will come as no surprise to learn that The Citadel is continually recognized as one of the best values among graduate colleges in the South.

Our unique student body offers numerous opportunities to grow socially and professionally with both current and future leaders. We encourage each of you to attend our regular SGA meetings and help us promote a dialogue that will serve to grow and improve the quality of our academic community. Together we can work to create a better institution and perpetuate our lasting legacy.

Throughout the year, students are encouraged to stay up-to-date with all CGC activities, news, and events through our Website, Facebook, and Twitter accounts. We look forward to meeting each of you during the 2011-2012 academic year! If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at bennett1@citadel.edu directly or at sga1@citadel.edu.

Academic Information

Academic Integrity

A copy of The Citadel Standards of Academic Integrity is available in The Citadel Graduate College (CGC) office, Bond Hall, Room 101.

Attendance

Regular attendance is required of all CGC students, and the attendance record maintained by the instructor is official. In case of absences due to illness or other circumstances beyond their control, students should notify the instructor as soon as possible. The attendance policy for any CGC class is determined by the instructor and will be presented in the course syllabus. At the discretion of the instructor, a student who violates the course attendance policy may be penalized. In general, missing more than 20% of the scheduled class meetings would be considered excessive.

Drop/Add and Withdrawals

To drop or add a course from the schedule or to change sections within a course, a student must come to the CGC office and complete a drop/add form or online through Lesesne Gateway. The deadline for changes is listed in the calendar for each semester. Withdrawal from a course means a student is discontinuing the course after the refund deadline has passed. A grade of “W” is listed on the transcript but has no bearing on the student’s grade-point ratio. Withdrawal after the deadline will result in a grade of “F” for the course. Withdrawal requires a visit to the CGC office to complete the form. Simple failure to attend class does not constitute withdrawal from a course. The student is responsible for initiating and completing the administrative process.

Fee Payment and Class Attendance

Students may not attend class until they have paid for the class. Registration is not completed until all fees are paid. Students may not attend class until they are fully registered. Any changes in registration must be made prior to the end of the drop/add period.

Financial Aid

For New Direct Loan Student Borrowers:

You must complete or renew the Free Application for Federal Student Aid - (FAFSA) every year. You can complete the application as soon as January 1st for the following academic year. For more information, visit the Financial Aid website at:

www.citadel.edu/finaid/index.shtml or review information in the CGC catalog at www.citadel.edu/graduatecollege/cgc-catalog.html

Graduation

Students must apply to participate in commencement as well as to graduate. Applications for graduation are available in the CGC office and online. A late fee is charged for applications filed after the deadline. To be recommended for a degree, students must meet all admissions requirements and satisfactorily complete the scholarship and curriculum requirements for that degree. Finally, students must be free from all financial indebtedness to the Citadel.

Graduating Month	Application Deadline

About Charleston

Charleston, a city known for its history and traditions, is located on the shores of the Atlantic Ocean at the juncture of the Ashley and Cooper Rivers. Founded by English colonialists in 1670, Charleston ranks as South Carolina's second largest city with nearly 108,000 inhabitants. Its sunny beaches, vibrant night life and enchanting architecture make the city a top year round destination spot for tourists. Charleston has also been noted as one of the best cities to live in America. Forbes, Travel & Leisure, Conde Nast, Entrepreneur, and American Style magazines have all consistently praised Charleston for its excellence and charm.

Charleston is home to many special events and festivals that highlight the culture and spirit of the Lowcountry. The Piccolo Spoleto and MOJA Arts Festivals are two of the many festivals held annually in Charleston that attract visitors and residents alike due to their rich artistic and cultural programs. The nation's largest wildlife art and nature event, the Southeastern Wildlife Exposition, is also held in Charleston and features exhibits and outdoor fun for the whole family.

Highlighted by its great history and warm Southern hospitality, Charleston remains one of the nation's best places to work, live and visit!

The History of The Citadel

The name Citadel evokes images of military might and strength. Before its use as The Citadel Academy beginning in 1842, the site of the institution had been used for military purposes by both the state and federal governments dating back to colonial times.

As the economy of South Carolina diversified to include the cultivation of crops other than rice, a building was needed for the “inspection of tobacco.” It was on this site in downtown Charleston that such a building was built in 1790. On February 22, 1797, the two regiments of the city were reviewed by President George Washington near the “Tobacco Inspection” on what was later known as the Citadel Green, now known as Marion Square.

In December, 1822, the legislature passed “An Act to Establish a Competent Force as a Municipal Guard for the Protection of the City of Charleston and Vicinity.” Marion Square was selected for an arsenal and guard house and in 1829, the building which was to be known as the Citadel was completed. The state and city authorities requested that it be garrisoned by United States troops from Fort Moultrie. The Nullification Crises of 1832 and the growing schism between North and South caused the state to request the withdrawal of United States troops in 1832, and the facility was garrisoned by South Carolina troops for the next ten years.

In 1910, the college’s name was officially changed from The South Carolina Military Academy to The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina. This change was necessary to reflect the academic nature of the institution. The word “Academy” had come to indicate a high school instead of a college and it presented an incorrect perception of The Citadel, which is an institution of higher learning.

The Citadel had outgrown its campus on Marion Square, despite numerous building additions, and could accommodate only 325 students. In 1918, the City of Charleston gave the State of South Carolina a magnificent site on the banks of the Ashley River for a greater Citadel. On October 21, 1922, the cadets returned to a new campus which consisted of a barracks (now known as Padgett-Thomas Barracks), an infirmary, two wings of Bond Hall, and other auxiliary buildings. The eighty years on Marion Square had come to an end.

The academic program was expanded in 1966 to include a coeducational undergraduate evening program. Although bachelor’s degrees were not granted through this program, it was one of the first instances of women learning in Citadel classrooms. Hours earned here were usually credited towards undergraduate degrees in other institutions. Two years later The Citadel began granting bachelor’s and master’s degrees through an evening program. The program grew until 1994, when The Citadel Board of Visitors approved the foundation of the College of Graduate and Professional Studies (CGPS). The name was changed in 2007 to The Citadel Graduate College (CGC). A coeducational institution from its conception, the CGC is now a mainstay of The Citadel’s academic environment.

The Citadel has established a niche as a small public “teaching” college. This refers to The Citadel’s emphasis on in-classroom instruction. While many Citadel faculty members have distinguished themselves through upper-level scholarly research, their focus remains on teaching and challenging their students. Unlike many larger colleges and universities, professors, not graduate assistants or doctoral candidates, conduct classroom instruction. Also, The Citadel’s policy of mandatory class attendance means that cadets will get more hours of classroom instruction than their civilian college counterparts.

The Daniel Library was constructed in 1960 and is named in honor of the late Charles E. Daniel, Citadel 1918, and the late R. Hugh Daniel, Citadel 1929, both distinguished Citadel men who were lifelong benefactors of the college. The men established the Daniel International Corporation - at one time the third largest construction company in the world. The main library collection contains more than 1,128,798 books, bound periodicals, and government documents and pamphlets. Facilities include a 12,000 volume reference collection and 449,390 microfilm and microfilm readers. Wireless internet is accessible from most major seating areas of the first and second floors. Eight Citadel murals and portraits of The Citadel's superintendents, presidents (a term used after 1922), and distinguished alumni are featured on the interior walls.

Summerall Chapel was erected during 1936-1937. Cruciform in design, the Chapel is a shrine of religion, patriotism, and remembrance. From the air the red clay tile roof forms a cross. It was designed in the spirit of 14th century Gothic. The furniture throughout is plain-sawed Appalachian Mountain white oak stained cathedral brown. The ceiling and timbering are pine. The lighting fixtures are handcrafted wrought iron throughout. Hanging from the walls are flags from the 50 states and the territories. The Chapel is in use year round with weekly religious services and weddings.

The Grave of General Mark W. Clark. By his choice, and with the approval of the Board of Visitors and the General Assembly of South Carolina, General Mark W. Clark was buried on The Citadel campus. He was the second man to serve as President Emeritus of The Citadel and the only person to be buried on campus. The grave site General Clark selected is between Mark Clark Hall and Summerall Chapel, near the Carillon Tower.

Mark Clark Hall houses the bookstore & gift shop, snack bar, barber shop, game room, and post office. It also features a billiard room and a large auditorium. The offices of the Director of Cadet Activities and the Student Publications Center are located on the second floor. The third floor of the building has a Catholic Chapel, the office of the Episcopal chaplain, the Honor Court, and quarters for distinguished guests of The Citadel. Mark Clark Hall was named after past president General Mark W. Clark and was added to The Citadel campus in 1957.

Jenkins Hall is named for Brigadier General Micah Jenkins, C.S.A., Citadel 1854, who founded King's Mountain Military School. One of General Robert E. The academic building provides a modern and complete educational environment among the best available in the Southeast. Copeland Auditorium is a 140-seat facility with computer installations at each seat and is acoustically designed for maximum audio presentations.

LeTellier Hall was constructed in 1937. It was named for Colonel Louis Shepherd LeTellier, who became acting president of The Citadel after General Charles P. Summerall retired in 1953. Colonel LeTellier held the office of president until he was replaced by General Mark Clark. He was the longtime head of the Civil Engineering Department. In this building are located all the offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Civil Engineering Department. The latest equipment and one of the largest hydraulic testing machines in the South have been installed in the laboratories. LeTellier Hall also has an excellent engineering library for supplementary study.

McAlister, Citadel 1924, on March 16, 1973. Its three basketball courts and seating for approximately 6,000 provide facilities for The Citadel's basketball program. Major renovations, completed during the summer of 1989, make this facility a showcase for Citadel basketball and other campus events. In June of 2007, it served as the site for the Democratic Presidential Debate sponsored by CNN and YouTube.

The Bulldog Monument is a memorial dedicated to Maj. Sam M. Savas, Jr., Class of 1951, who died in Vietnam in October 1965. He also served as a Citadel tactical officer from 1962 to 1965. As a cadet and while in service to The Citadel, he so inspired Citadel cadets toward dedication to their alma mater that, upon his death, cadet members of the Society of American Engineers erected the monument in his honor (it was unveiled in 1966). The monument also contains a bronze plaque in memory of his son, Lt. Sam M. Savas, III, a naval aviator and member of the Class of 1979, who died in service to his country in October 1985.

Byrd Hall, the chemistry-geology building, is named for Colonel R.M. Byrd, Citadel 1923, who served as head of the Chemistry Department from 1945 to 1956 and as academic dean from 1956 to 1966. It houses classrooms, offices, laboratories, service areas, and a library. It contains a 175-seat auditorium named in honor of Colonel Samuel A. Wideman, (Citadel 1929), who was head of the Chemistry Department from 1956 to 1968.

Duckett Hall is named for the late Major General James W. Duckett, Citadel 1932, President of The Citadel from 1970-1974. Major General Duckett devoted his career to educating The Citadel cadet. Upon his retirement, he held eleven faculty and administrative posts. This facility provides modern classrooms, laboratories, and offices for the Biology Department.

Bond Hall, named for Colonel O.J. Bond, an 1886 graduate and the ninth president of The Citadel, is the main academic and administrative building. Colonel Bond served as president from 1908-1931 and was an avid and prolific historian of The Citadel, penning a detailed account of the college's early years. One of the first buildings constructed when the college moved from Marion Square, Bond Hall was completed in its present form in 1939. The two wings were first completed in 1922 when the Greater Citadel was built, and since that time numerous additions have taken place. Bond Hall houses The School of Business Administration, ITS, The Citadel Graduate College, the offices of the President, Financial Aid, Treasurer and Admissions.

Capers Hall is named in honor of two brothers, Brigadier General Ellison Capers, C.S.A., Citadel 1857, and Major Francis W. Capers, Superintendent of The Citadel from 1852-1859. The building houses classrooms, offices and other areas for English, History, Modern Languages, Political Science, Education, and Psychology. Most CGC classes are held in Capers Hall.

The Barracks of The Citadel are used to house the 1,900-member South Carolina Corps of Cadets. The barracks are also home to the Regimental Band and Palmetto Battery. Through rebuilding and new construction, there have been eight standing barracks on The Citadel campus. The barracks are open to the public three times throughout the school year: Parent's Day, Homecoming and Corps Day. CGC students are encouraged to visit the barracks during these times as well as to attend a Friday parade. Learn as much as possible about the proud traditions of The Citadel.

He was the youngest person to become a member of the Corps of Cadets, entering at age 15. The Holliday Alumni Center includes a grand foyer, gift shop, visitor's center, two courtyards, the Courvoisie Banquet Hall, Renken Dining Room and McKissick Library. When you graduate from CGC, you are encouraged to join the Citadel Alumni Association and take advantage of the many lifelong benefits.

Johnson Hagood Stadium is a steel and brick structure with one of the best lighting systems in the South. It was named for Brigadier General Johnson Hagood, Citadel 1847, who was chairman of the Board of Visitors from 1877 to 1898. Finished during the 1948-49 academic year, it had a seating capacity of 22,000. The stadium was purchased from the City of Charleston in 1963. All home games are played in this stadium. Recently renovated the stadium increased its capacity to 22,500. CGC students should come see the only collegiate football on the Charleston peninsula and come out and root for your Bulldogs!
